Our Wild Robots have now travelled through four countries and collected four passport symbols. But they've discovered something very important: people may speak different languages, eat different foods and have different traditions - but music, stories and play can bring communities together.
Tonight we've travelled across the world and learned that communities can be very different from one another. But every community needs people who are willing to learn, help and grow. And tonight we have some very special Scouts who did just that when they were Cubs. We welcome them back to the Pack to receive their well-deserved awards.
